The human civilization is based upon the principle of fulfillment. So the ultimate ideal solution is the one which allows the fulfillment of all the basic and advanced needs of human beings. Nature has extended the most accurate ways of fulfilling these needs but in a way to explore and develop human race has moved towards the extensive use of technology and artificial processing. This on one hand connotes progress but on the other hand, it has moved us far away from natural setups. In this book, the focus has been the concept of urban homesteading which is gaining fame with every passing day. It is because of the growing awareness about the destruction of individual life and collective environment after too much reliance on processed and artificial elements. This book is the first step for those who want to follow this mode of living so it will talk about all the related aspects of daily living as well as household. This book will extend advice in the most practical way so that if someone is interested in urban homesteading he can follow it in the most accurate way. The major discussions presented and highlighted in this book will relate to the following important issues, targeted at an aim of spreading knowledge about urban homesteading. The introductory discussions about the meaning and concept of urban homesteading with the underlying principles and philosophy of the idea. An account of different aspects related to farming and growing in urban steadying. A discussion about various aspects of clothing with special reference to urban homesteading. The suggestions about self-care and maintenance whole being a part of urban homesteading and natural
