

Violet Dawn

Kasei is a world in peril. It hasn't rained in three years. What few bodies of water that remain are rapidly drying up, and the thin atmosphere is rapidly fading, but the commoners, the poor working class, are unaware. They just struggle daily to survive, ruled by the ruthless and heartless Holy Ones and the military police, the Kaseian Protective Patrol. It appears that nothing is ever going to change, that there is no hope for the poor and lowly class. Then one day one of the higher ranking officers of the KPP, ADom, forgets to take his vitamin, and suddenly he begins to see their world in a completely different light.
