

Cruise of the Living Dead: A Zombie Anthology

An outbreak of the living dead aboard a cruise ship. Cannibalism among the survivors of the rising. Steampunk reanimates. These are some of the nightmarish scenarios that Scott M. Baker has written about. Now most of his zombie-themed short stories have been pulled together in Cruise of the Living Dead: A Zombie Anthology. This collection contains the never-before-published short story Recognition which follows the turning of a human into one of the living dead from the zombies point of view. The other stories include: Cruise of the Living Dead - Carissa Banning, a cruise ships medical officer, finds herself at ground zero of a zombie outbreak when an infected family aboard ship spreads the virus through the passengers and crew. Rednecks Shouldnt Play With Dead Things - Sam Grodin and his buddies think they stumbled across the ultimate hunting experience when zombies attack their campsite. However, when these zombies fail to behave the way they do in the movies, Sam and the others realize they have bitten off more than they can chew. The Hunger - Janet Simmons has been roaming an apocalyptic wasteland for months avoiding the living dead and trying to find enough food to stay alive. When she stumbles across another survivor, she suddenly finds herself in a human eat human world. Last Flight of the Bismarck - Victorian adventuress Scarlet and her male companion Chappy thought they were taking a trans-Atlantic flight in Germanys latest airship, The Bismarck. When they discover that the Bismarck is actually being used as a delivery device to infect the Northern United States with steampunk-enhanced zombies, they engage in an epic battle with the living dead in the skies above New York City. Is Anyone Out There? - An isolated survivor of a zombie outbreak uses the Internet to contact family and friends before the world comes to an end.
