

Geo-213: The Lost Expedition

It is the distant future. People from earth have spread across the galaxy and are beginning to travel even further. But the insatiable human appetite for resources needed to continue this exploration, colonization, and industrialization has taken its environmental toll on mining planets like Geo-213. Survey activity has commenced on the upper levels of Geo-213 to remap centuries old mining tunnels and to see if there is any ore in them left to mine. But one of the survey teams has gone missing. A rescue team sent to find it also goes missing. They should have known better. This planet is over 75 times the size of earth. The tracks are in disrepair and the tunnels are crumbling with age. Earthquakes are common. Cave-ins too. There are haunting and predatory creatures in the mines. Danger could be around the next bend. Enter Divad LaTroy, Harren Trober, Gerreb Lederi, and Rowec Sullers. These four men go deep into the planet to find the Lost Expedition and bring them to the surface. On the way they encounter danger, see lost cities, find and lose treasure and they may even lose their lives. What happened to the Lost Expedition? Will they ever be found? Who are the powerful beings that live deep within the planet, and what is the secret they are keeping from those who live and work near the surface? Read Geo-213: The Lost Expedition to find out.
