

Marianne Williamson On Meditation and Prayer

With these two lectures based on A Course In Miracles, Marianne Williamson leads listeners through a spiritual meditation and explores with them the transformative power of meditation and prayer. Meditation, Marianne tells us, is a discipline much like physical exercise. We gain the benefits of meditation by doing it. By exercising our undisciplined mind through meditation, we quiet our ego-minds and listen to the small, still voice within. During the training, we can change the way we perceive our lives and therefore change our experience of it. Daily meditation and prayer allow God into our lives. They put us in contact with the true power of the universe. Meditation and prayer not only benefit our individual lives, but benefit our world. As we change our thinking, as individuals and as a species, our external world will shift to fit our new collective vision of the world. Marianne Williamson continues to expand the growing international audience for her profound yet down-to-earth lectures on metaphysics and universal spiritual themes.
