

Climate Change for Fun and Profit

It seems one of the primary hot-button issues today is the phenomenon formerly known as global warming. That's right, climate change the new citizen-frightener from the folks who brought you Y2K, the Chicken Little Society. Every time you turn on the news, check your email, walk your dog, or open a checking account, someone is telling you that the sky is falling and in order to combat climate change, you have to reduce your carbon footprint, then they list several ways you can do this. One of the first things they tell you to do is buy a new car. No, not just any new car, no sir, they try to sell you a brand new Toyota Prius because it's a hybrid car that runs on both electricity and gas.
