Then he meets the Realms creators and finds that all the things he believed are not as they appear. Creation is at stake and Trey and Cassie are lost on what do next. Perhaps salvation lies in the Return of the Realm. The action continues in Return of the Realm as the Empire continues the struggle to survive an ancient enemy . This review is from: Ashes of the Realm - Juliettes Dream (Ashes of The Realm (Book One)) (Kindle Edition) Excellent! The most imaginative writing I have ever read. A true universe of its own, that you care deeply about. This continuation of the Annihilation series keeps you engrossed to the end. I cant wait for book two. Do yourself a favor and read both series.

Excerpt from The Return of the Realm Lt. Blackwell looked at the scans of the incoming air craft and announced, The force fields on those ships are a force four. They are stronger than anticipated and hornets will not penetrate. Use your beams. Mike heard the announcement and knew that the enemys armor was also going to be stronger than he planned. He was going to lose warriors but hornets were going to be the best weapon against the charging enemy warriors. He sent the weapon mix to his company and focused on the enemy soldiers moving out of the exploding camp toward the holding pen. He worried that Fleet may have bit off more than they could handle as well, but worrying about it wouldnt change anything. He turned back to his scanner and saw the enemy camp continuing to explode from the main tanks on going artillery barrage. The thousand White Warriors had formed a semicircle in front of the holding pen. As long as they prevented any aircraft from getting around them, the back of the pen would not need to be defended. Each warrior had thirty yards to defend and the formation would allow them to put the approaching enemy in a crossfire. There were ten thousand troops in the enemy camp so they were facing ten to one odds. They watched their scanners and waited for the front of the charging Kreyll to move inside their lines. Colby watched them leaving the camp and was amazed at how fast they were moving.

Most of them were running on all fours and they had to be moving faster than fifty miles an hour. Here they come. Then he heard the command, Open fire, all weapons free.
